

ABSTRACT

1
2 Adenoviral mutants are described that have single amino acid mutations in the E1B-55K protein
3 which mutations effect the p53 binding/inactivation and the late functions of the E1B-55K protein in a
4 manner that enhances the efficacy of such viruses for treating cancer when compared to adenoviral mutants
5 that have the E1B-55K region deleted.